Nondr

20 Ways to Pause in Your Day

Discover everyday opportunities to re-center and feel more present, calm, and refreshed.

- Start your day with a few mindful breaths. Before getting out of bed, take a minute to focus on your breath, so you can create a calm, clear mindset to take on your day.
- Tune into your senses when you shower.
  Feel the water on your skin, the sound of the stream, the smell of the soap, and be fully aware of the experience of getting clean.
- Be present while brushing your teeth.

  Notice the sensations of the brush against your gums, the scent of the toothpaste, and your movements as you brush.
- Take mindfulness with you on your commute. As you drive, note the sensations of your body in motion, take an inhale and exhale each time you come to a stop sign, and observe your surroundings.
- Stop to really listen. As someone is talking to you, give your full attention to what they're sharing.

- Stop and savor your food. While eating, notice the flavors, textures, and aromas of your meal.
- Take two minutes to notice your thoughts and feelings without judgment. Then focus on your breath to anchor yourself in the present.
- Get mindful reminders. On your phone or computer, set reminders to stop, breathe, and bring your attention to the present.
- Tune in while working out. Notice the sensations in your body as it moves, stretches, or strengthens.
- Get present during household tasks. Whether washing dishes, sweeping the floor, or folding laundry, pay attention to the movements, textures, and sounds involved.

wondr

- Take a beat between tasks. Pause, breathe, and let go of residual thoughts from the prior task so you can approach the new one with a clear mind.
- Step outside and connect with nature.
  Step into a park or garden, or simply observe the sky or trees around you. Tune in to the sounds and sensations of the natural world.
- Notice when you're on autopilot online.
  When scrolling through a feed or news,
  stop and note how your body and mind feel. What do you really need at this moment?
- Take a daily digital pause. Turn off all screens and notifications for a short while. Let yourself breathe and fully enter the present moment.
- Check in with your five senses. Ground yourself in the present by identifying one thing you can see, hear, smell, taste, and touch.

- Take two minutes for a stretch or yoga pose. Make it mindful by paying close attention to the sensations in your body.
- Pause to connect to gratitude. Slowly inhale and exhale. Then, notice three things you appreciate right now.
- Go on a mini mindful walk. Bring your attention to your feet touching the ground and the rhythm of your movement and breath.
- Do a brief body scan. Scan from head to toe, noting any areas of tension. Imagine breathing into those areas, creating room for ease.
- Take a mindful pause at bedtime. Notice the emotions, thoughts, and experiences of your day without judgment. Allow yourself to let them go and prepare for rest.

